Our fees are structured so that space industry companies anywhere in the world can economically advertise vacancies.

We believe in value for money. Our fees are much lower than any other space industry job website.

Ease of Use: Once registered, to get your vacancy notices posted, all you need to do is email them to us. We will do the rest. You do not need to log onto our system and learn how to submit and edit text. We do all of that for you. No fuss. No bother. Just the absolute minimum of work on your part.

Once we have received your vacancy notice, we will post it online within one working day.

We can accept vacancy notices in word or pdf format, or in the body of an email.

If you need to make any changes to vacancy notices you have posted, just let us know by email and we will take care of it for you.

If you wish, we can even regularly visit your company website and extract vacancy notices for you - with absolutely no effort on your part. There is an additional fee of £10/€12/US$15 per month for this service.

Our aim is to make it as easy as possible for you to post vacancy notices. Our service is simple to use, efficient and fast.

Vacancy Notices: Your vacancy notices will be posted on the public part of our website where job seekers can view them. Job seekers do not need to register to view vacancy notices.

When your vacancy notice is published it will remain on the Jobs In Space website until the day after the closing date for applications or for 60 days, whichever is earlier. Even if your registration has ended, your vacancy notices will remain active on the website.

Responding to Vacancy Notices: Job seekers are encouraged to apply directly to you in response to your vacancy notices. Your vacancy notices should include contact details as well as instructions explaining how job seekers should apply. If you wish, you can include a link to an online application form on your own website.
